Queer Heroes

Take the Stage for Modern Activism

A workshop experience that takes you back to the golden age of Hollywood where you meet LGBT women who made their stamp. Through performance, engagement and group exercises you'll access empowering tools for 2015 activism.

"Lauren brings an iconic woman to life and makes one feel as though they were an intimate friend of Garbo. Invite her and feel the magic of insider time travel."

- Greta Schiller, Emmy Award winner, "Paris Was a Woman" and "Before Stonewall"

"It helped me really see that we've always been around. That history tries so hard to re-write this and wipe out our identities."

- Luna V., student

"Everyone has strengths and weaknesses and that in order to be an effective activist you have to find out what yours are."

- Lauren Block, student

"This workshop shows how the lives of strong-willed LGBTQ and allied members of Old Hollywood can teach a lot about impassioned and practical activism to the movers and shakers of today. I took away a sense of self-pride from this workshop, and the idea that sometime you have to be uncompromising to be your own--and your community's--best advocate."

- Austin Greitz, student
